

Building Consistency for Open Science in Europe: Rhetoric and Practice

Open Science - are we really open for it?

Octavian Andronic

Assistant Professor

Coordinator of Big Data Analysis Department – CIeH - UMFCO

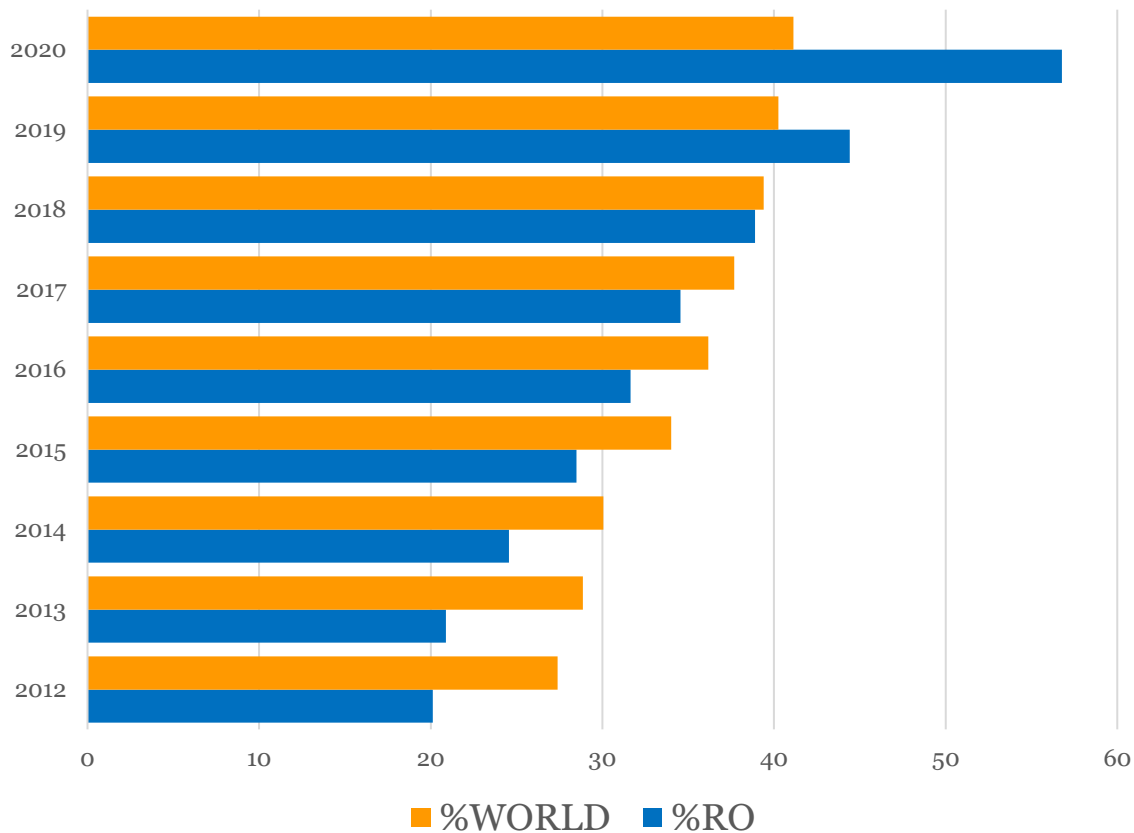

Chair of Romanian Chapter of EASE

Associate Editor DOAJ

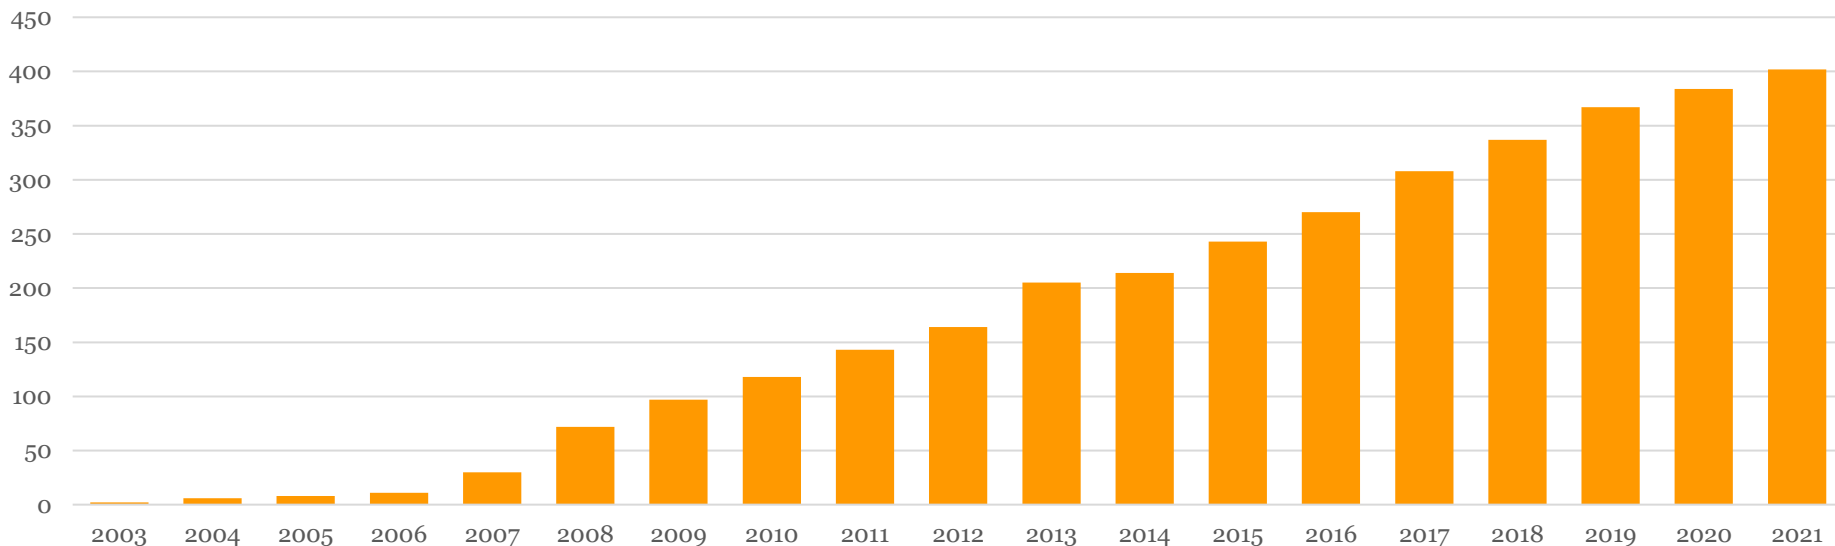

Open Access 56.76%

Clarivate
Web of Science™

What do we know?

What do we know?

Survey

- Anonymous
- 3 general questions: age, sex, academic degree
- 9 specific questions
- 3-5 minutes
- Institutional email

What we did?

Questionnaire

212 answers

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR	36	17.0%
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR	14	6.6%
LECTURER	22	10.4%
PHD STUDENT	15	7.1%
PROFESSOR	19	9.0%
RESIDENT	8	3.8%
STUDENT	98	46.2%
Total	212	100.0%

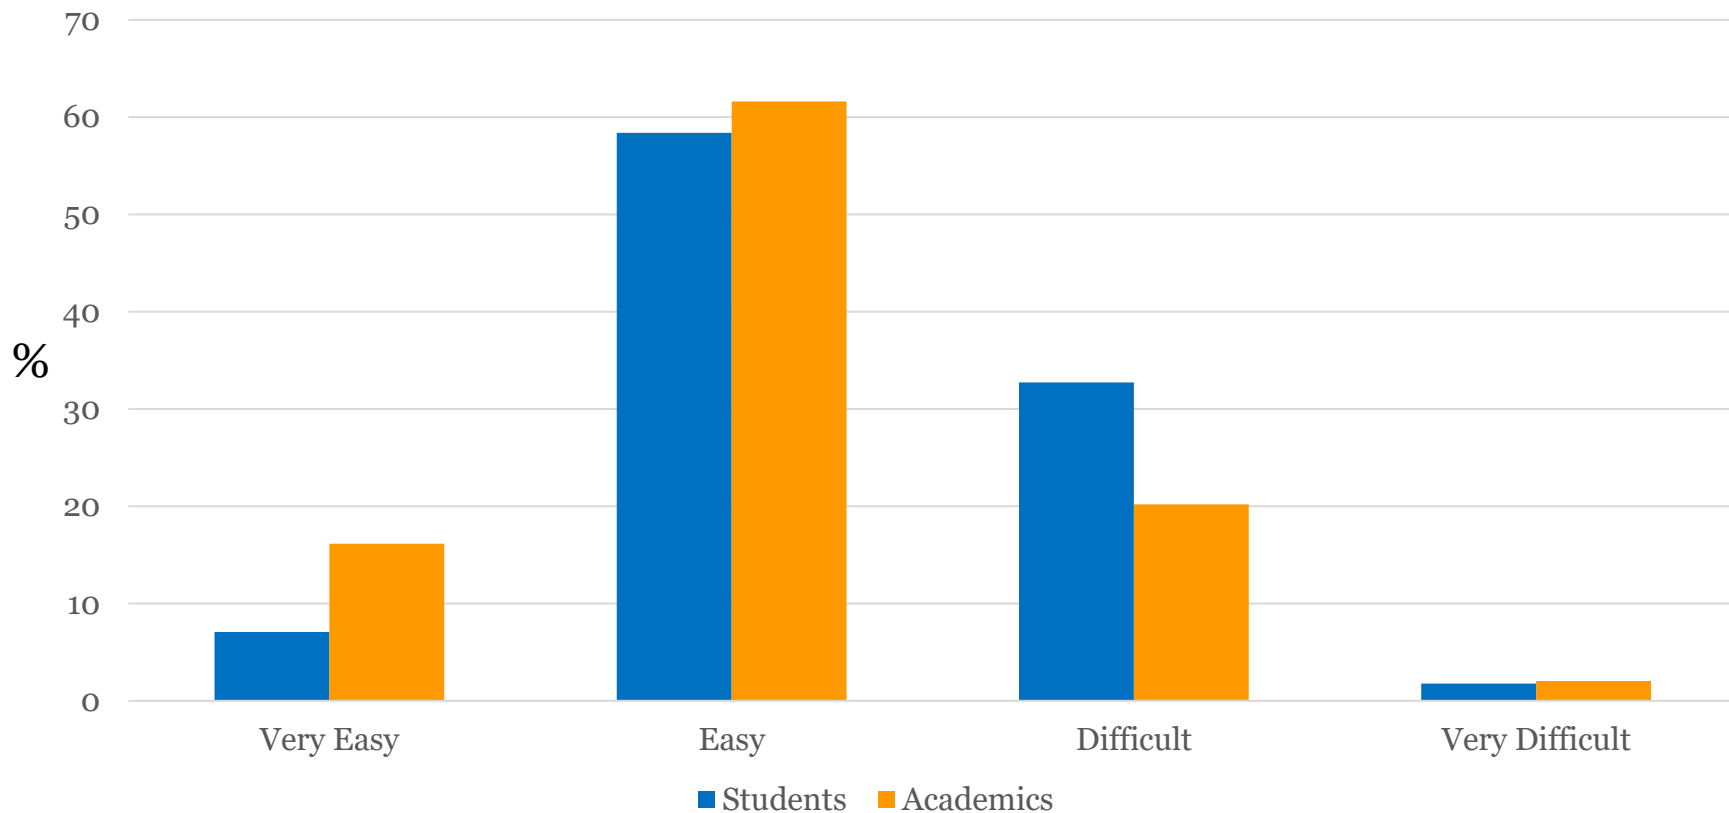

Questionnaire

212 answers

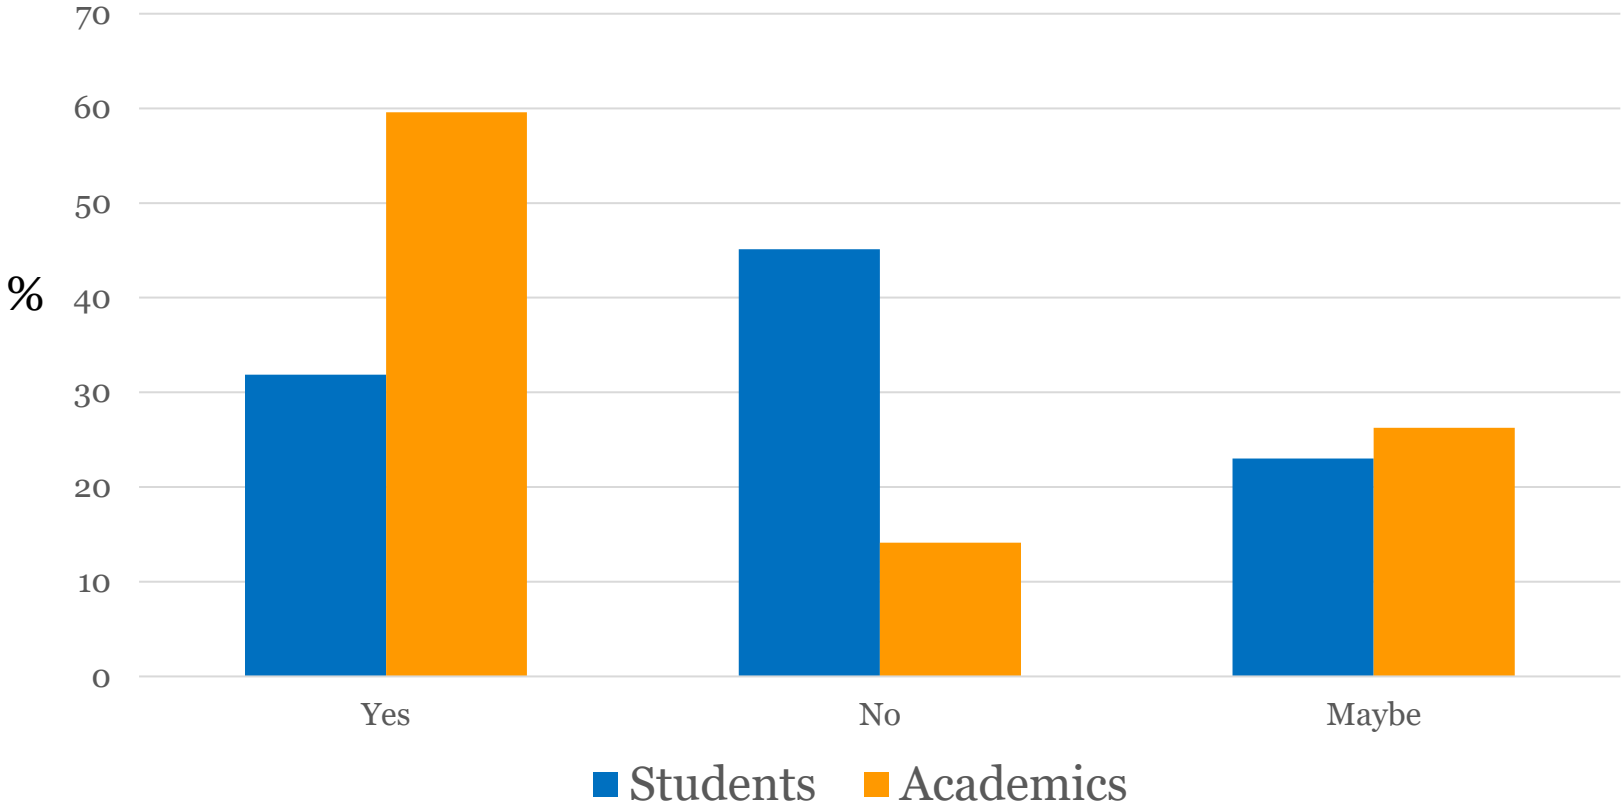

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR	36	17.0%
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR	14	6.6%
LECTURER	22	10.4%
PHD STUDENT	15	7.1%
PROFESSOR	19	9.0%
RESIDENT	8	3.8%
STUDENT	98	46.2%
Total	212	100.0%

Students	121
Academics	91

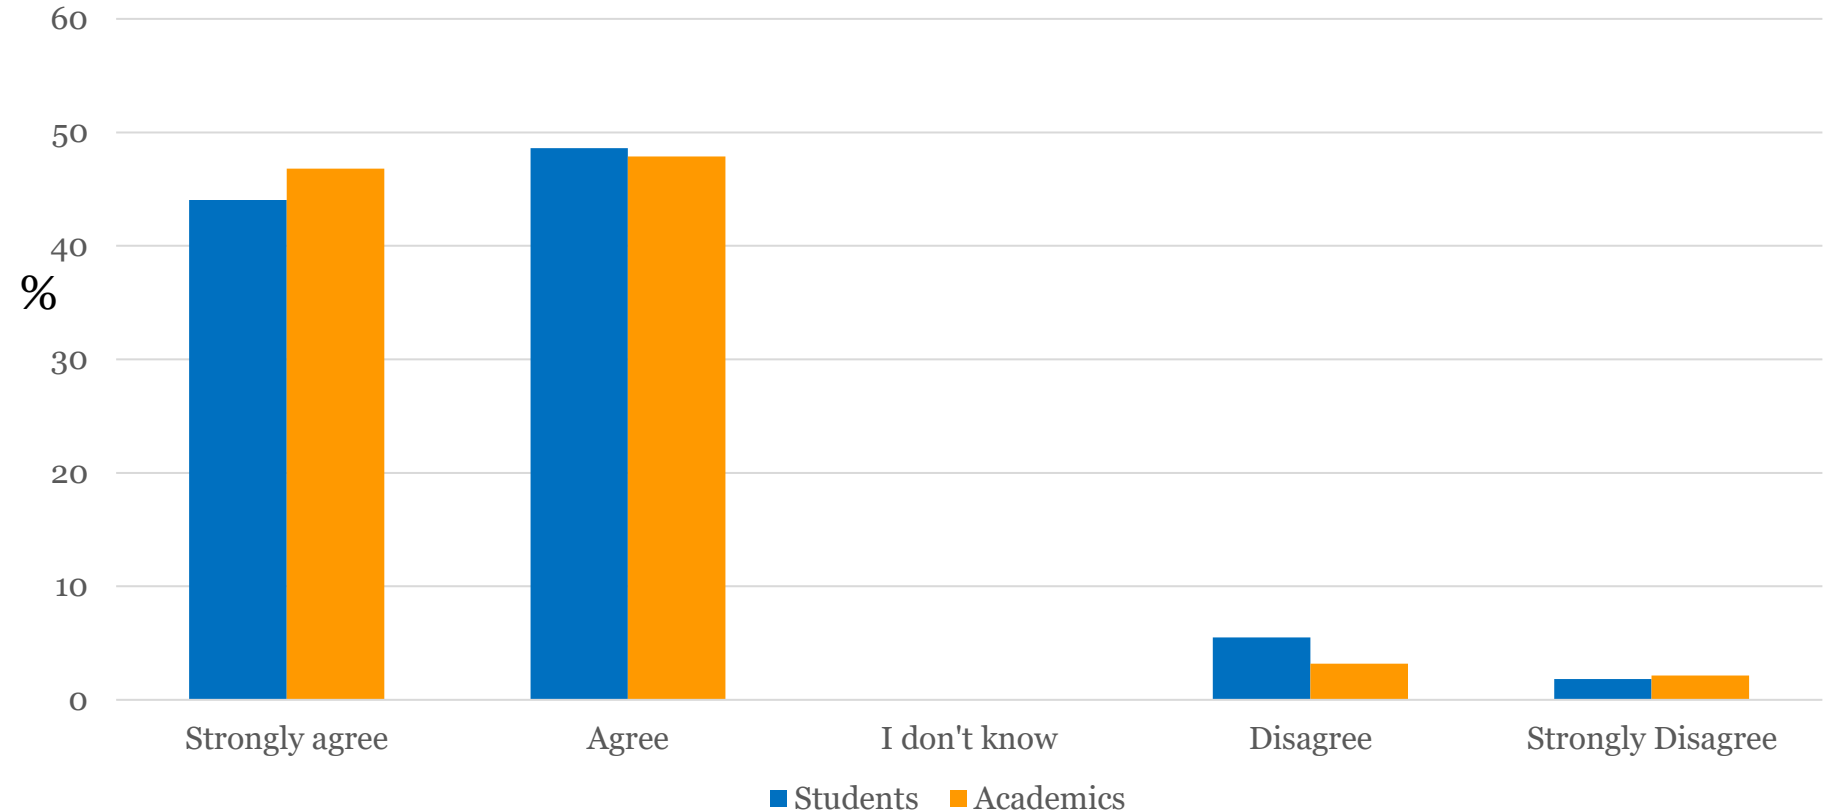

How it is for you to understand legal issues regarding copyright and license on publishing?

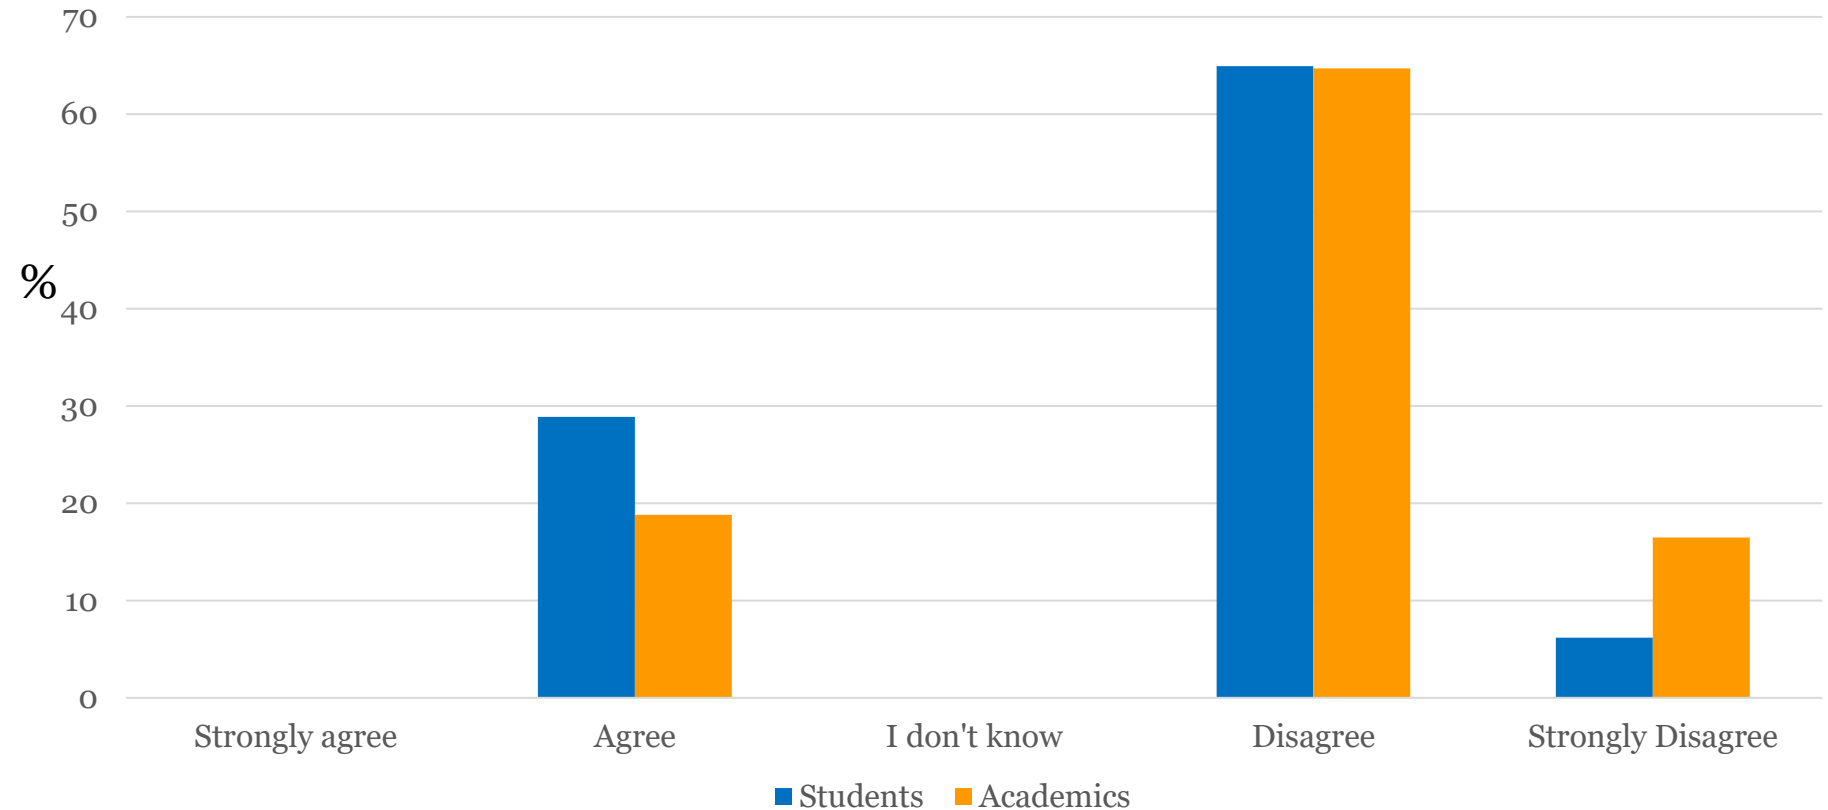

Are you familiar with the concept of open science?

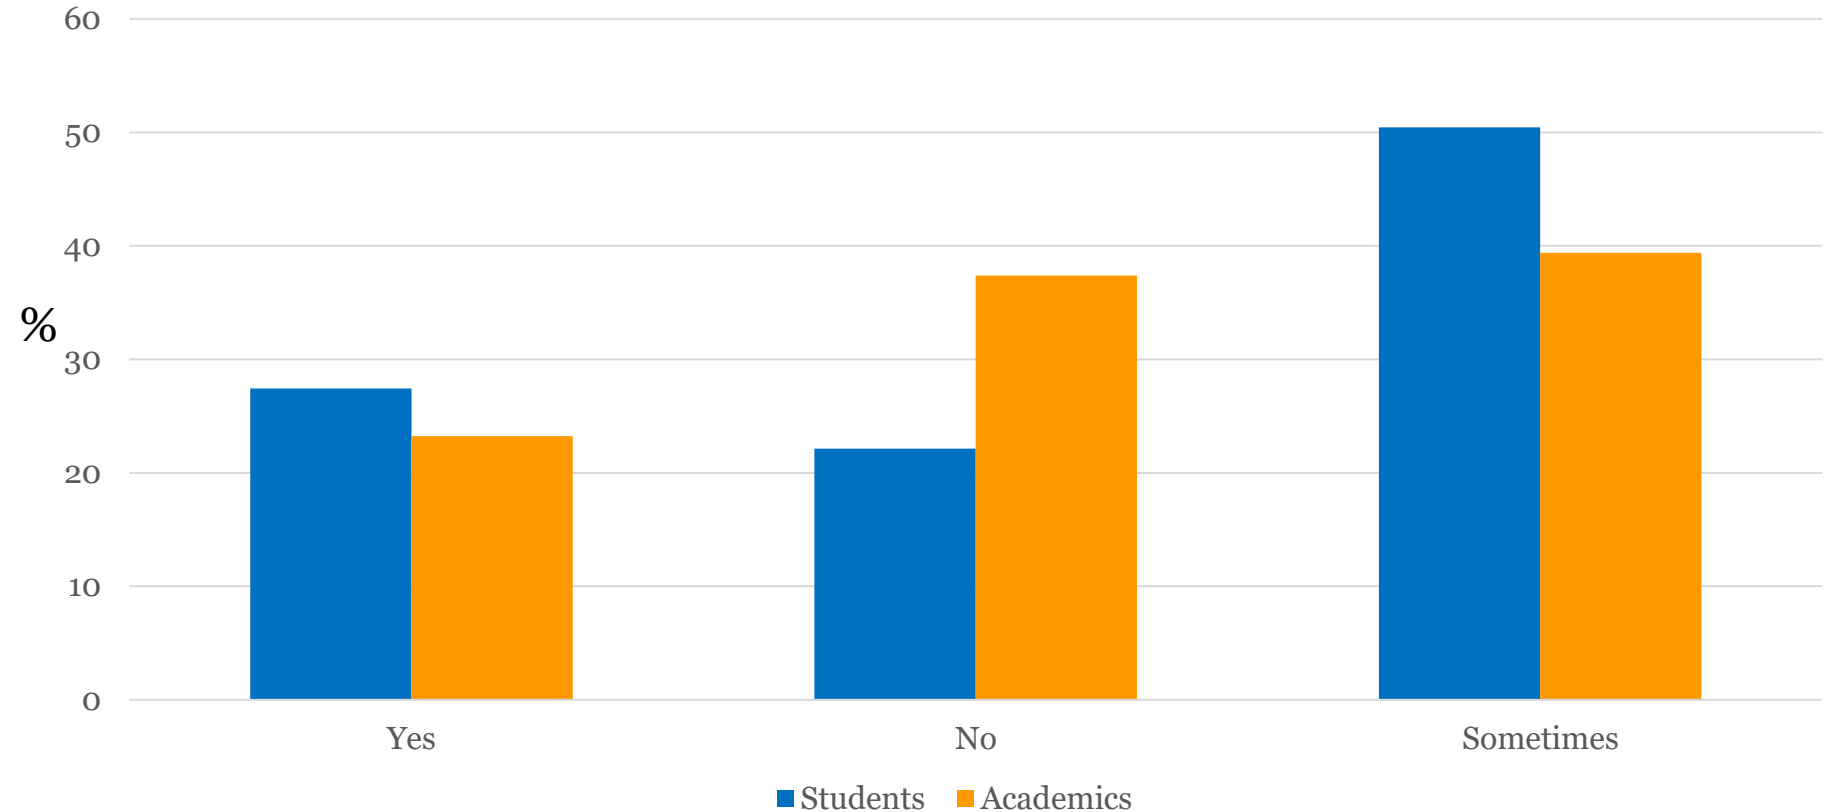

What do you think regarding the following statement: "All published papers should be open access"

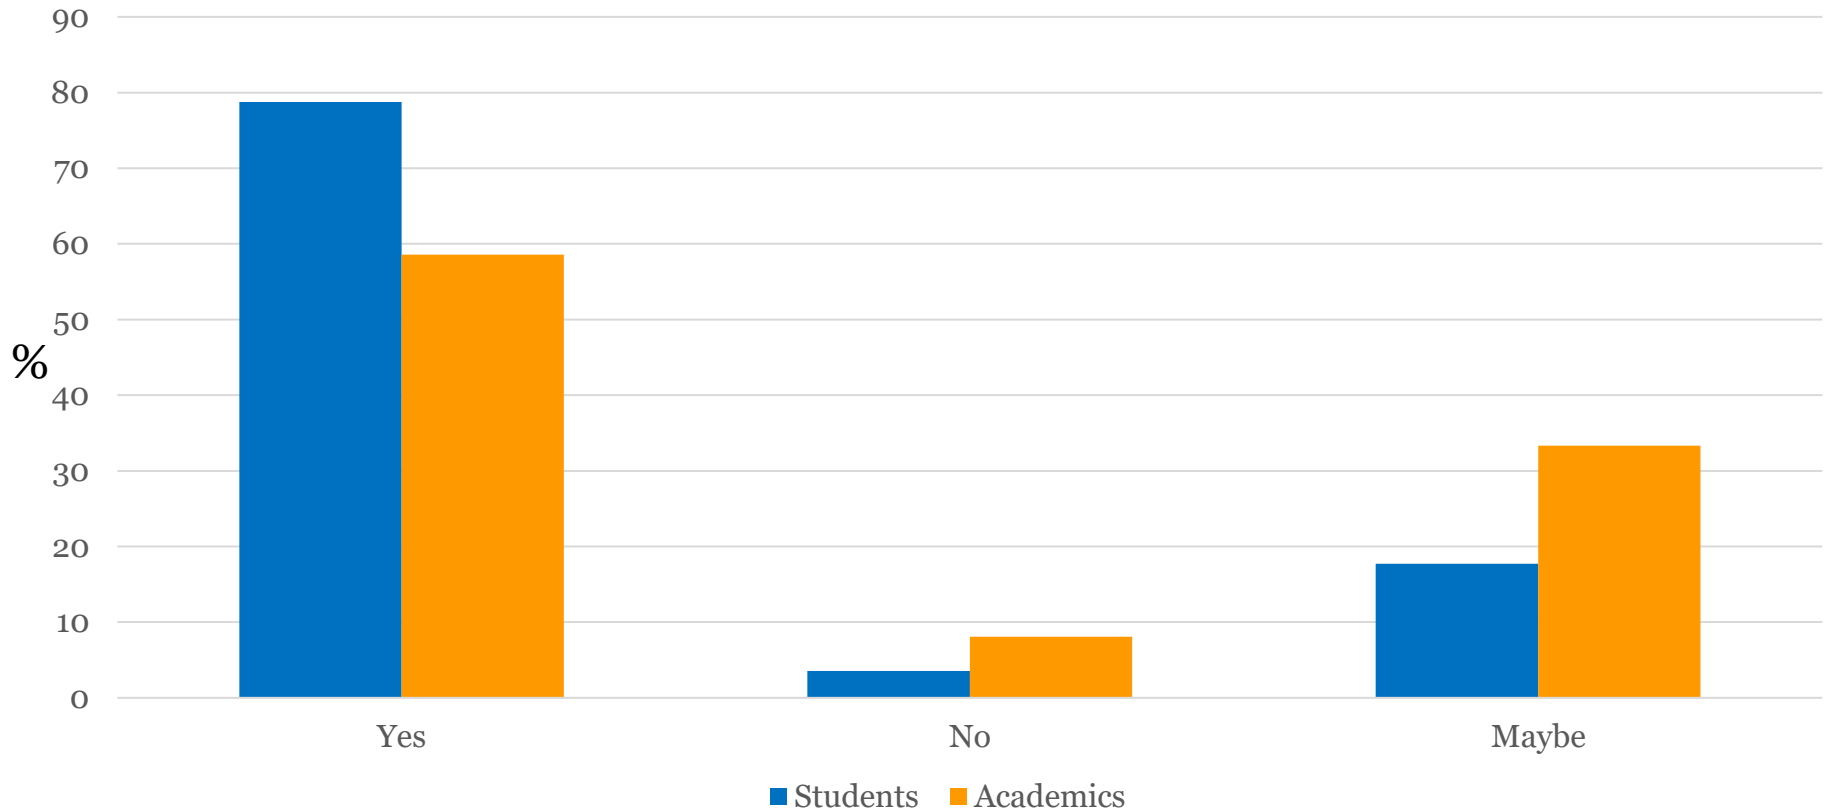

What do you think regarding the following statement: "The concept of open access has led to a decrease in the quality of published articles"

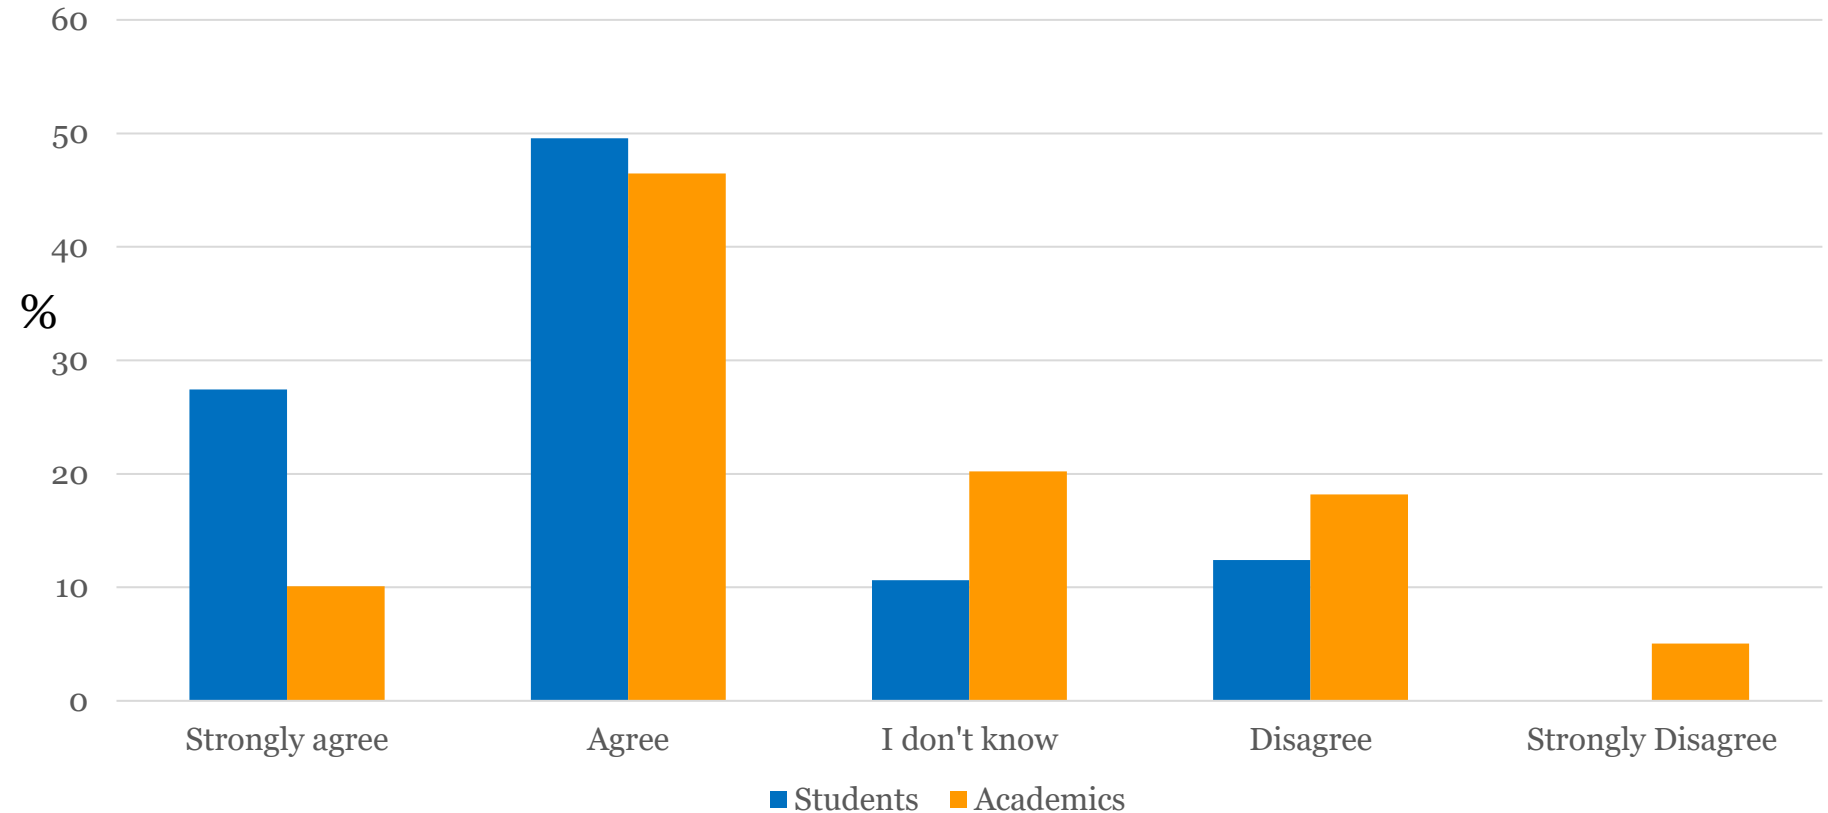

When you publish an article, is Open Access an criteria when choosing the journal?

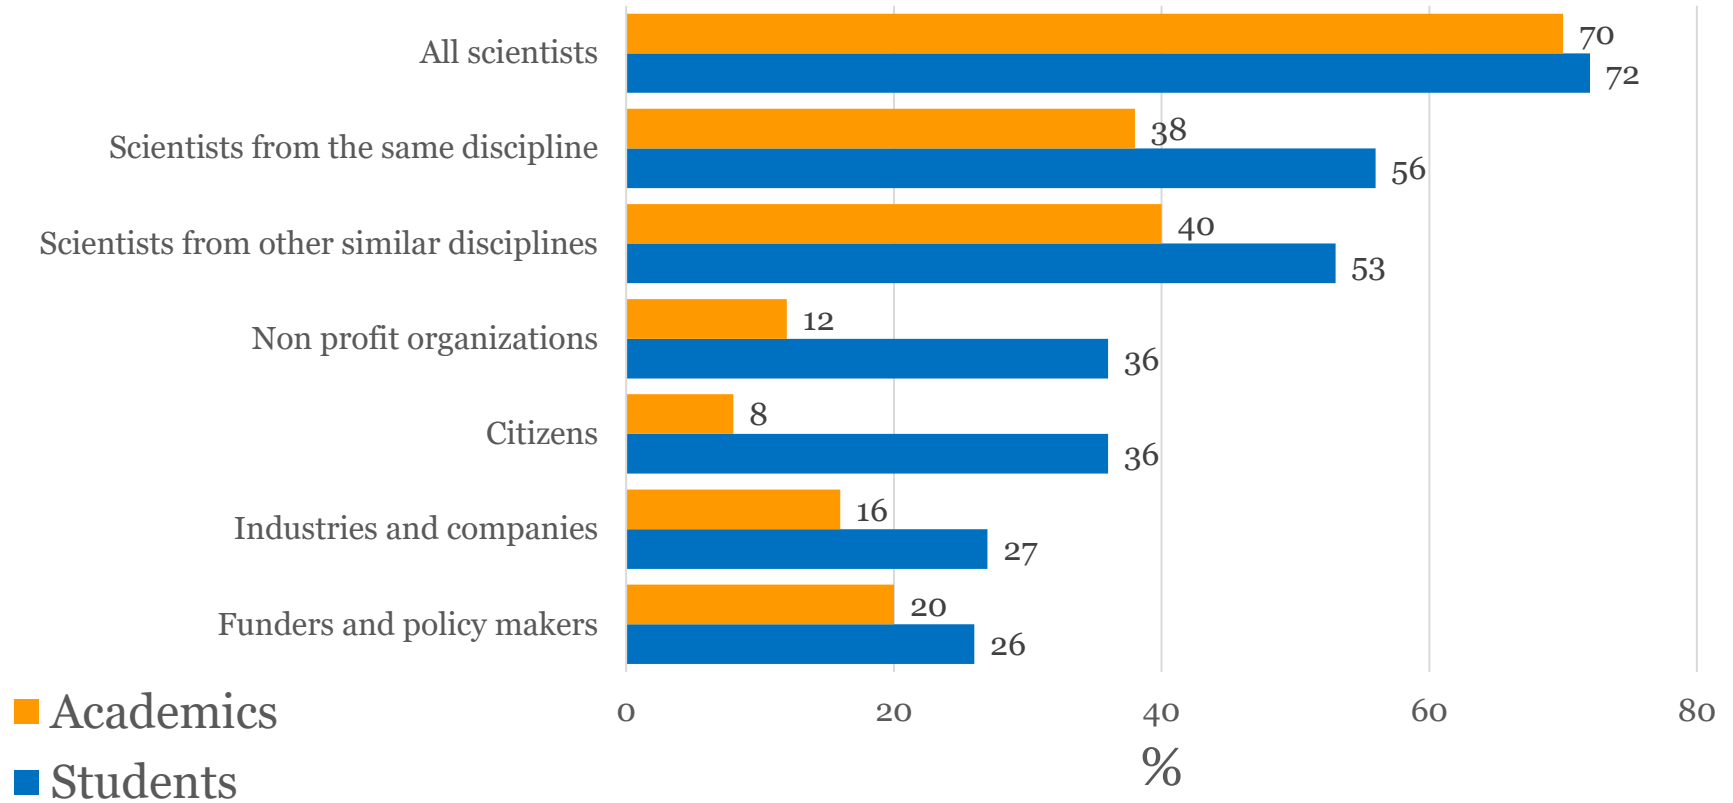

Would you be interested in getting training or guidance on how to publish scientific papers in open access journals?

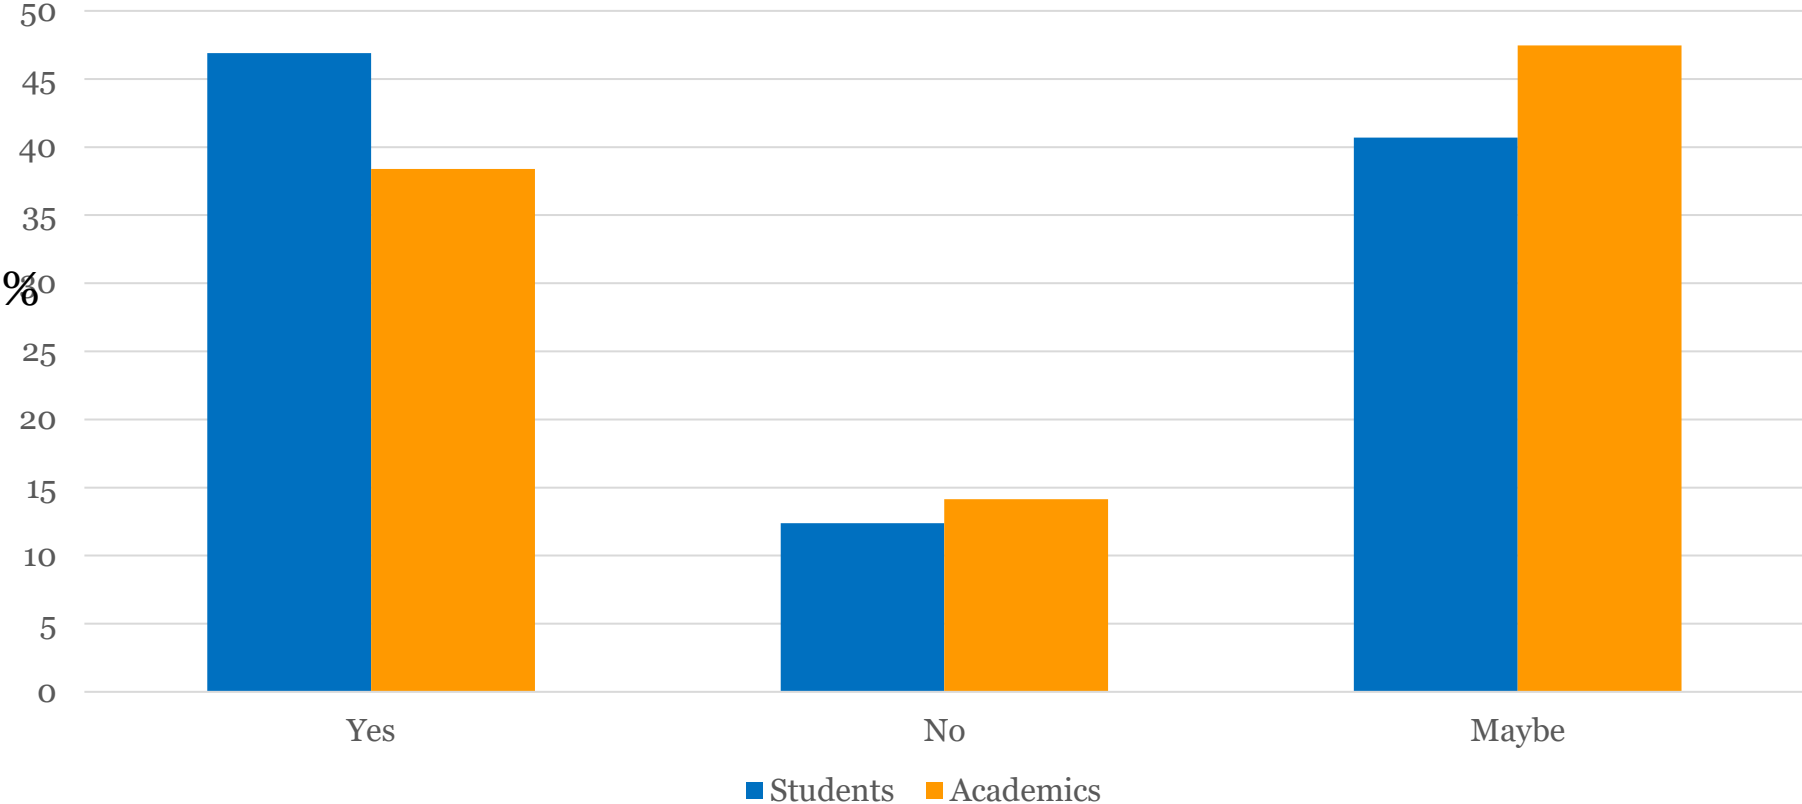

What do you think regarding the following statement: "All raw data from studies should be shared - open data"

In your opinion data from research might be open for:

Do you agree to share all raw data from your research?

Conclusions

- We are not fully open
- But, we are on a good path
- Training is needed and desired

Thank you!